

Private Charles Scott Walker

By Kathleen Ryan

Charles Scott Walker was born June 16, 1971 to Martin and Susan Walker. Scottie, as he was called, along with his brothers Martin Jr. and Christopher grew up in Douglasville, Georgia. Scottie was 12 when his parents divorced and he went to live with his father.

Martin Sr. described his son as the typical teenager. He loved to laugh and enjoyed touch football and loved riding motorcycles. His only complaint was getting Scottie to clean up his room. During his teen years all he talked about was joining the Army and he did so after high school at the age of 19.

Scottie was a scout with the 3d Armor Division and his older brother Martin Jr. was serving in Saudi Arabia when he was called to action to serve in the first Gulf War. Unfortunately, he only served three weeks before he was killed on February 1, 1999.
